West Virginia DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Funded by the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program, 23SCBPWV1220-00. Awarded by the United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Marketing Services

WELCOME!

West Virginians take a lot of pride in their heritage. Our farmers and producers are no exception – although they certainly are exceptional.

Developed in 1986, West Virginia Grown was designed to market West Virginia grown and made products to consumers. By placing the West Virginia Grown logo on a product, they are assuring buyers that product was grown or processed, with quality ingredients, in the Mountain State.

As local food continues to grow in popularity and consumers turn to healthier, fresher options, branding your products as local will be vital to increasing potential market opportunities. We believe this program is an important component to helping grow and diversify our economy, as well as expand our local food systems throughout West Virginia. Our mission is to convey to the consumer that when they buy a West Virginia Grown product they are putting dollars right back into the communities we live in.

The branding around this program is simple – West Virginians pride themselves on their heritage and culture. We always rally around one another and never shy away from supporting our great state. It's that same pride we have tried to emulate through our West Virginia Grown program.

Agriculture has rich roots in the Mountain State, and we believe it will play a vital role in our future.

Semper Fi,

Kent A. Leonhardt
West Virginia Commissioner of Agriculture

The West Virginia Grown Program

WHO WE ARE

Developed in 1986, West Virginia Grown was designed to market products made right here in the Mountain State to consumers. By purchasing a West Virginia Grown product, buyers are assured the item was grown or processed in West Virginia.

We, at the West Virginia Department of Agriculture believe this program is an important component to helping grow and diversify our economy, as well as expand our local food systems throughout the state.

As local food continues to grow in popularity and consumers turn to healthier, fresher options, the West Virginia Grown program is essential to fostering growth within our own agribusinesses. By choosing a West Virginia Grown product, you are echoing that notion and highlighting agriculture's rich roots in the Mountain State and vital role in our future.

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to convey to the consumer that when they buy a West Virginia Grown product, they are buying a high-quality item and putting dollars right back into their local communities.

Rock Valley Farm Produce

It's all about produce at Rock Valley Farm. This sixth-generation operation loves making family memories together and providing quality produce at the same time. Some of that produce is grown in the farm's high tunnel, like their slicing and cherry tomatoes and slicing and pickling cucumbers. They pride themselves on getting produce to their consumers as quickly as possible. They also deliver to some local restaurants who enjoy providing their customers with the freshest, highest quality products around.

Windswept Farm

Windswept Farm is nestled among wildflowers and fruit trees in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia. John and Gail Welty have been working the farm for 20 years and added beehives 11 years ago. John, a certified master beekeeper, is retired and spends his days doing farm chores and tending to his 30-plus beehives. Windswept is a guaranteed naturally grown apiary. This ensures that their honey is ethically harvested, leaving enough behind to nourish the colony.

RFID TAGS

AVAILABLE THROUGH WVDA

The WVDA Animal Health Division has received 840 RFID identification tags from the USDA for distribution to WV cattle producers. These tags are no cost and for use in cattle only. A producer must have a premise identification number to request tags.

This can be obtained by calling 304-558-2214 or completing a form online at: <https://agriculture.wv.gov/divisions/animal-health/premise-farm-id/>.

TAGS ARE FREE!

Producers can request a minimum of 10 or up to 100 of these free tags.

Special requests for greater than 100 tags can be submitted, but tags can only be used at one premise.

To request tags or for more information please contact WVDA's Animal Health Division at 304-558-2214 or scan the QR code.

Clara's Gourmet, LLC

Picking strawberries with her grandmother when she was a little girl and making strawberry freezer jam is Andrea Duke's favorite memory from her childhood. Combine that with her love for the art and history of preservation and that is where the foundation for Clara's Gourmet, formerly In a Jam, comes from. Andrea prides herself on small-batch jams and jellies crafted with locally grown and picked fruits. "This business has become something that I am so humbled by and proud of every day. Spangler's Family Farm

John Spangler planted his first loader bucket full of corn in 2010. The Jumpin' Johnny's Popcorn went flying off the shelves that fall and he knew he had found the perfect product. He's expanded his business several times and now sells to farmers markets, local school systems and mails it to customers all up and down the East Coast.

Spring Creek Superior Meats, LLC

Kevin Mullens and his family started their business in 2020 during the pandemic when there was a demand for fresh, quality beef, pork and lamb. At first, the family was filling a lot of small orders. Over time, that has changed. Mullens stresses their steers, hogs and lambs are born and finished on the farm. They raise heritage hogs, Simmental and Angus steers and hair sheep.

Sunset Berry Farm

Sunset Berry Farm sits atop beautiful Flat Mountain in Alderson where Farmer Kent is a third-generation strawberry grower. During strawberry season (May and June) families flock to the farm to pick their own berries. The farm also hosts the West Virginia Sunflower Festival on Labor Day weekend. Farmer Kent and his wife Jennifer are passionate about providing premium fruits and veggies to their community. "We love to see our guests connect with nature, discover the source of their food and experience the difference when fruits and veggies are harvested by hand, fresh from the earth," says Kent.

Hillsboro Maple Works

The Swan family has been making syrup since 2015 when they started with just six taps. They made the leap to upwards of 800 taps in 2022. "We have just a handful of maples at our house outside Hillsboro where our sugar shack is located," explains Trevor Swan. The family also taps sycamores, and they hope to tap other trees in years to come.

Country Family Farms

Heather and Kerby hear folks talk about their family farm for over 150 years. They love providing food and support in the local community. The farm is U-pick style and embodies the phrase "farm-to-table". The produce used in sauces and preserves gets hand-picked in the field and is prepared in a kitchen built by the family. Walking through the rows of the U-pick field or stopping by their stand, you get an authentic farm experience.

Devil's Due Distillery

At Devil's Due Distillery, they mash and ferment grains utilizing local products, distill them weekly, and bottle them. Their name is a play on the term "Angel's Share". Angel's share is when whiskey gets aged in a barrel, about 3-5% evaporates every year that it ages. The old timers used to say that the angels were coming down to drink it, so what's left in the barrel is referred to as the "Devil's Due". They are open seven days a week and host private events and parties.

Indian Water Maple Company

Indian Water Maple Company started as a hobby. In 1987, Ed and Karen Hartman made about one gallon of maple syrup on their kitchen stove. The next year they used a homemade, flat bottom pan to make 40-gallon. The next summer, they built their own sugar camp and purchased a real evaporator and installed a gravity feed tubing system. Many changes have taken place since to make the operation more efficient, but the company is still family-owned with sons Harman, Bowie and Kaleb joining the operation.

The Black Dog Coffee Company / Appalachian Chocolate Co.

The Black Dog Coffee Company was born out of a decade's long journey in search of the ultimate cup of coffee. It turns out that most of the coffee beans we found on grocery store shelves and even in many popular coffee shops were inferior grade, over-roasted beans that had gone stale long before they even reached the shelves.

The West Virginia Farmers Market Association (WVFMA) is a statewide membership-based organization designed to strengthen farmers markets and enhance their surrounding communities. The WVFMA provides resources and technical assistance to farmers markets through our website and other communication channels. The WVFMA works with various partners across the state to provide farmers markets with relatable and relevant resources to address their needs.

The West Virginia Farmers Market Association (WVFMA) is honored to offer free membership to members of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture's Veterans and Heroes Program. This complimentary membership, courtesy of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture, provides access to a host of benefits at no cost.

Members enjoy discounted rentals of our three poultry processing trailers, membership packets funded by the Claude Worthington Benedum Foundation, eligibility for our Mini-Grant program, personalized one-on-one support, membership to the Farmers Market Coalition, and more!

In 2007, a group of farmers and farm advocates were awarded a grant through the West Virginia Department of Agriculture. Initial guidance for the group was provided by the WVU Extension Service and Davis College of Agriculture, Forestry and Consumer Sciences. Since inception, the WVFMA has been committed to strengthening the viability of farmers markets across West Virginia.

Over time the WVFMA grew to include more than 60 farmers markets across the state. In 2012, the WVFMA began a system of analytical data collection known as the annual West Virginia Farmers Market Census. This census exposed a critical need for a standardized data collection system for all farmers markets in West Virginia. The WVFMA developed the data collection toolkit to assist markets with the task. Free Membership for Veterans and Heroes Program Participants

Join the WVFMA today and discover the support and growth of your market and business! Reach out to (304) 398-5214 or coordinator@wvfarmers.org for more information.

Authentic Appalachia Maple Syrup

Authentic Appalachia is a collective of sugarmakers, forest farmers, educators, researchers, truck drivers, marketing specialists, web designers, grant writers, visionaries and volunteers from Central Appalachia. They are natives of Appalachia, newcomers who fell in love and decided to stay, or boomerangs—left a time or two to always return to this place they call “home”. The land we call home supports the growth of native sugar, red, black, and silver maple trees that gift us “sugar water” or sap—the key ingredient for maple syrup.

Food Product Labeling

Why Does It Matter?

Food product labels are important to consumers and producers alike. Consumers benefit by knowing exactly what they are getting in a food product, and producers benefit by having a trusted means of informing consumers about their products.

In West Virginia, there are two categories of labels

Products made in a commercial kitchen (inspected by health department):

- May be sold outside of West Virginia.
- Must carry an FDA-compliant product label, regardless of what type of product.

Products made in a home kitchen (potentially hazardous or non-potentially hazardous):

- May ONLY be sold inside of West Virginia.
- Non-potentially hazardous homemade foods generally do not need label reviews.
- Potentially hazardous homemade foods generally DO need label reviews.
- Potentially hazardous homemade foods must be sold directly to consumers at a registered farmers market.
- The producers of some potentially hazardous homemade foods may need permits, process approval and/or proof of specialized training.

FAQs

Standard Jams and Jellies

- These products contain sugar, which helps to preserve the fruit safely, and do not need label reviews.
- If they contain any other ingredients, such as peppers, they do require a label review.

Candy and Baked Goods

- Candy and baked goods generally don't need label reviews unless they have dairy or other potentially hazardous ingredients.

Pepperoni Rolls

- Pepperoni rolls containing only pepperoni or only pepperoni and cheese are considered a bakery item and do not require a label review or any other permit.

West Virginia Grown Branding Program

- Label reviews and compliance with all other regulations are required for WV Grown Program membership.

For more detailed information, look for the WVDA Farmers' Market Vendor Guide online, email productlabeling@wvda.us, or call WVDA's Business Development Division at 304-558-2210.

Ready to get started designing your label?

Required Elements:

1. STATEMENT OF IDENTITY

The common name of the product.

2. NET CONTENTS

Either the weight or liquid volume in the container in standard measurements, followed by metric equivalents. This should be located on the bottom third of the main panel. FDA has specific minimum type sizes, so make the type face nice and big to be safe. Honey is measured by weight – maple syrup as a liquid.

3. LOCATION

Name/business name, city, state and zip of the producer, packer or distributor. (Unless the name is the actual manufacturer, it must contain a qualifying phrase, such as “manufactured for” or “distributed by.”)

4. INGREDIENTS

Ingredients should be listed after the word “Ingredients” followed by a colon in descending order of weight. Sub-ingredients must be listed in parentheses after an ingredient. Be on the lookout for hidden allergens in your sub-ingredients. For example, Worcestershire sauce often includes anchovies, a fish allergen.

5. ALLERGEN STATEMENT

Allergen statement for any of the eight major food allergens recognized by FDA. For example, “Contains: milk, egg, fish (species), crustacean shellfish (species), tree nuts (species), peanuts, wheat and soybeans.” Fish, crustacean shellfish, and tree nuts must also include the common species name in parentheses. For example, “Contains: tree nuts (walnuts).” Sesame will be added to the allergen list Jan. 1, 2023.

6. KITCHEN/FOOD TYPES

Products made in a home kitchen must ALSO include the following statement: “This product was made in a non-commercial kitchen that may not be subject to inspection and may contain cross-contact allergens not included in the allergen statement.”

Supplemental Elements:

7. REFRIGERATION OR FROZEN

Products that need to remain refrigerated or frozen should say so on the label. And any cooking instructions, such as minimum internal temperatures, should also be on the label.

8. ADDITIONAL GRAPHIC ELEMENTS/DESCRIPTIONS

You may include other elements on your label such as the WV Grown logo (available in electronic form and stickers), product description, etc. However, the required elements should be grouped together and non-required elements should not intervene.

9. LOT CODES/SAFE HANDLING INSTRUCTIONS

Please include any lot codes that would be used in the event of recall as well as any safe handling instructions for your product.
