Appalachian Willows & Brooms

Abbie and Don Wiles have a small family farm in Palestine, WV. They began their farming journey in 2017, planting 375 shrub willows as a test crop; the willows flourished and so has their business. They now have approximately 13,000 willow bushes, which are harvested each winter for basket willow stems and cuttings, and a broomcorn crop for making their heritage brooms. Both their willow and broomcorn are USDA Certified Organic.

Clara's Gourmet, LLC

Picking strawberries with her grandmother when she was a little girl and making strawberry freezer jam is Andrea Duke's favorite memory from her childhood. Combine that with her love for the art and history of preservation and that is where the foundation for Clara's Gourmet, formerly In a Jam, comes from. Andrea prides herself on small-batch jams and jellies crafted with locally grown and picked fruits. "This business has become something that I am so humbled by and proud of every day. Find what you love doing and follow your dreams," says Andrea.
